The selected candidate may also facilitate, monitor and enforce compliance with court orders as directed by the Court, the U.S. Magistrate and the Chief Probation/Pretrial Services Officer. The selected candidate may also provide effective casework and correctional services to federal defendants/offenders who have been placed on pretrial release supervision, pretrial diversion supervision, probation, parole (including military parole) and supervised release.

Depending upon assignment of duties the selected candidate may travel extensively within a geographic area in the District of South Dakota. Overnight travel may be required several nights per month. Regardless of length of service in the office, at the direction of the Chief Probation/Pretrial Services Officer, any officer may be required to work temporarily in another area of the state of South Dakota and/or, for the good of the agency, be required to change regular duty stations within the state. Given the professional nature of the position, the selected candidate will be required to work, at times, in excess of 40 hours per week and during evening and weekend hours without additional compensation.

MINIMUM QUALIFICATIONS

Candidate must possess a bachelor's degree from an accredited college or university preferably in a human science field. Candidate must also have at least two years of specialized experience in a related field of work. Specialized experience is described as progressively responsible experience, gained after completion of a bachelor's degree, which provides evidence of the capacity to understand and apply the human behavior management skills involved in the position. Experience as a police, custodial, or security officer, does not qualify as specialized experience.

Candidate must have a driver's license and access to a vehicle for use when a government-issued vehicle is unavailable. Candidate must have sufficient keyboarding skills (or alternative skills) to be able to demonstrate proficiency in producing reports/documents/correspondence using electronic word processing and other office system technology.

PHYSICAL REQUIREMENTS AND MAXIMUM ENTRY AGE

The duties of probation officers require the investigation and supervision of alleged criminal defendants and convicted offenders who may present a physical danger to officers and to the public. The duties require moderate to arduous physical exertion and sufficient physical dexterity for safe application and use of self-defense tactics. On a daily basis, some officers face unusual mental stress because they are subject to possible danger and harm during frequent, direct contact with individuals who are suspected or convicted of committing federal offenses. Therefore, applicants must be physically capable of efficiently performing these duties. Officers must possess, with or without corrective lenses, good distance vision in at least one eye and the ability to read normal size print. Normal hearing ability, with or without a hearing aid, is also required. In most instances, the amputation of an arm, hand, leg, or foot will not disqualify an applicant from appointment; however, severe health problems or physical defects that constitute employment hazards to the applicant or others may disqualify an applicant.

First time appointees to positions covered under law enforcement officer retirement provisions must not have reached their 37th birthday at the time of the appointment. Applicants 37 and older who have previous law enforcement experience under the Civil Service Retirement System or the Federal Employees' Retirement System and who have either a subsequent break in service or intervening service in a non-law enforcement officer position may have their previous law enforcement officer experience subtracted from their age to determine whether they meet the maximum age requirement.

SPECIAL REQUIREMENTS FOR PROBATION OFFICERS

First time appointees to the position of U. S. Probation/Pretrial Services Officer must undergo an extensive government background investigation. Further, prior to appointment, final candidates selected for this position will undergo a medical examination and drug screening. Upon successful completion of the medical examination and drug screening, a candidate may be appointed provisionally, pending a favorable suitability determination by the Court. In addition, as conditions of continued employment, every officer is subject to ongoing random drug screening, updated background investigations every five years, and, as deemed necessary by management for reasonable cause, may be subject to subsequent fitness-for-duty evaluations.

The medical requirements and the essential job functions derived from the medical guidelines for probation officers, pretrial services officers, and officer assistants are available for public review at <http://www.uscourts.gov/>.
